Educational Philosophy

I believe that every child has the ability to be both an amazing learner and a caring and thoughtful citizen. Children are individual learners who need a safe, nurturing, and stimulating classroom in order to grow academically, emotionally, and spiritually.

As an educator, I strive to find the best possible way to teach children and to keep them engaged in their own learning. By challenging students and using multiple paths to teach lessons, students will remain invested, active, and inquisitive on a daily basis. There will be constant learning going on.

To promote good citizenship, students will take responsibility for our classroom through class jobs, learning partners, and group work.

Children will also grow emotionally this year. Focusing on caring for others, it is very important for them to become invested in becoming honest, fair, loving, and thoughtful individuals. Respect will be taught and practiced through character development and on a daily basis in real-classroom situations.

Because I graduated from St. Cassian (Montclair) and Mount Saint Dominic (Caldwell), I value a Catholic education. I believe we will be building character to become more like Christ through our service project and through valuable lessons learned in our religion curriculum.

I look forward to this year with confidence and excitement. A love for learning will certainly grow in our students as they become excellent citizens and faithful and caring individuals.
